Rev. Alexander Crone, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church at Newport, was here last Wednesday and Thursday looking up the Episcopalians of this village, and found some seventeen families, or about twenty-five persons, who are members of that denomination. He held a service in the Methodist church Wednesday evening, which was well attended. Rev. Mr. Johnson and the stewards of the church kindly allowed the use of the edifice. Music was furnished by the Methodist choir, and Mr. Crone expressed high appreciation of their aid. Episcopal services have been held here in the past by Rev. Dr. Harris, diocesan missionary. Communion service was held at the home of Mrs. L. M. Hubbard Thursday morning.

The trout season will commence next Friday and the dealers in fishing tackle are kept very busy these days. During the first few weeks every brook and lake will be thronged with fishermen watching for the speckled beauties. To catch them by fair means is sport for every one, but to get them by means of a set line or other illegal methods should not afford pleasure to any true sportsman. There are some excellent fishing grounds in Orleans county at present, but if the fish are to be preserved so that there will be plenty of sport in the years to come the law must be enforced. If this matter is to be looked after it must be done by the fishermen themselves. They are the ones who have the opportunity to know if the laws are being broken and if they are interested in the sport they must see that the laws governing the catching of fish are enforced.

The reception given by the Congregational society to their pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Warner, last Thursday evening, was attended by nearly two hundred people, a large number of members from the neighboring church affiliating. The company was received by Mr. and Mrs. Warner, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Barron. After the social greetings the entertainment was begun, consisting of singing by a quartet composed of Mrs. Barrows, Mrs. Batchelder, and Messrs. Tenney and Batheider, with Mrs. Aldrich accompanying on the piano; this was followed by a recitation by Mrs. Tenney, a duet by Mrs. Barrows and Mr. Batchelder, and a humorous French-dialect reading by Mr. Baldwin. Refreshments of ice-cream and cake, olives, and lemon punch were served, after which the company began to disperse, unanimously testifying to a very pleasant occasion.

The annual business meeting of the Woman's Literary Club was held at Mrs. Wright's last Wednesday evening. Reports given were favorable, and interesting plans for the future were made. Officers elected were: Pres., Mrs. Davis; Vice-Pres., Mrs. Heath; Sec., Miss Littlefield; Treas., Mrs. Stannard; Program Com., Miss Locke; Miss Cutting and Mrs. Hartwell. The public library and reading room to be in charge of a committee of which Mrs. Nichols was elected chairman; Mrs. Orcutt chairman of committee on arrangements for club day. The red letter evenings given by the club in the past have been free of charge, so the club hope their friends will show their appreciation by attending a benefit entertainment and reception to be given May 8th. Four hundred invitations have been issued by the club. Proceeds for the reading room.

The annual meeting of the Barton Fish and Game league was held at the school house last Tuesday evening. The officers elected for the coming year are as follows: President, W. W. Miles; vice president, W. M. Wright; secretary, W. W. Reiden; treasurer, J. M. Blake; executive committee, W. R. Aldrich, C. E. Hamblet, C. H. Blood. A committee of ten members was elected to enforce the fish and game laws. A committee was also elected to see about screening a part of Crystal lake to provide a place for the fry to remain while small. A unanimous vote was then given, extending thanks to ex-Fish Commissioner John W. Whitcomb and the present board of fish commissioners for the interest they have shown in the Barton league and for the many things they have done to help the club in their work. During the past season the club has received and distributed throughout the streams and lakes of this vicinity 81,000 fry and 12,000 fingerlings. Great enthusiasm has been shown in the work and fry have been used to the best possible advantage. The league now has nearly one hundred members and is doing grand work in this section. However it could do but little if it were not for the assistance rendered by the fish commissioners, and many expressions of gratitude are heard because of the aid which the club has received in this way.

The community was saddened last Saturday morning to learn of the death of Mrs. William Burwick. She had been sick for several weeks, but had battled hard for life, and it was thought she would survive longer, if she did not entirely recover her health. Mrs. Burwick was a very social, kind-hearted lady, one of the best of neighbors, kind to the sick, often sending them delicacies and befriending them in many ways. She was exceedingly benevolent to the poor and unfortunate, sympathizing with those who were in sorrow; charitable to the erring, always having pleasant and cheerful words for all who called at her home. She was a great lover of her home, very seldom leaving it even to visit her friends or relatives. She was a faithful wife, doing all in her power to lighten the burdens of her husband in his arduous duties as engineer. She was a devoted mother, unsparing in her efforts to make her children happy. She has suffered much in her last sickness, but everything which loving hands could do to make her comfortable has been done for her. Nancy Ellen Burwick was the daughter of William and Sarah Bonett. She was born in Manchester, N. H., September 1, 1847, but had lived much of her life in Vermont. When a young lady she married Frank Ferrill, by whom she had a son and daughter, but later her daughter and husband died. On June 26, 1889, she married William Burwick and had lived here since that time. She had many friends, both among old and young. Her funeral was held this (Monday) morning at the house at 10 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Warner officiating. She leaves to mourn her loss, a husband, one son, Harley Ferrill, and wife and son, and a sister, Mrs. Judson M. Quimby of Littleton, N. H., and other relatives. Her remains were taken to St. Johnsbury Center for burial. There was a most beautiful display of flowers, one elegant piece having been sent by the locomotive engineers.

A suit was brought against H. A. Harding last week by parties who had endorsed a note enabling him to raise a certain sum of money at the Hyde Park bank. It was claimed that Mr. Harding had obtained their signatures to a second note which he stated was to be used in obtaining money with which to take up the note at the Hyde Park bank. Fifteen hundred dollars was sent to be applied on this note and the remainder was used for other purposes. Since this action was brought various reports have been circulated to the injury of Mr. Harding. The transaction was made as reported but the money received above the fifteen hundred dollars was used in paying another note and some freight bills which were due just at that time. Mr. Harding had just signed a note with the Creamery Package Company from which he was expecting to receive in a few days sufficient money to pay the Hyde Park note. However this deal fell through and the other note was obliged to stand. Mr. Harding later paid a part of it leaving about $900 unpaid. While it is possible he may be legally held for fraud from the transaction as shown there was evidently no intentional fraud on the part of Mr. Harding. Had the fire not occurred the affair would have been settled satisfactorily to all. We understand that the note is to be settled and the matter dropped.

We fall to see how this can be beaten unless someone has the cheek to report having hatched fifteen birds out of fourteen eggs.

Ned Hunt was operated upon for appendicitis Thursday afternoon by Dr. Smith and assistant of Hanover, also assisted by Drs. Ranney, Wright, and Stevens of this village, and Drs. Nichols and Hastings of Barton. Other complications were discovered, but up to the present time there appears an even chance for his recovery. It is a very serious case.

The first week in Rev. Mr. Lewis' new year as pastor of the M. E. church has been a very busy one. Among other affairs he has officiated at the following three marriages: On Monday he married Mrs. Jennie Dudley and Mr. S. Eugene Danforth of this place. On Tuesday afternoon Miss Lizzie M. Maxwell and Harry J. Robinson were made one at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Smith, in the Stafford block. They have gone to Massawippi to visit relatives, and on their return to this village will begin house-keeping in Mrs. Chamberlin's new tenement. On Wednesday evening Mr. Lewis went to Glover and married Miss Lola Gray of this place and Henry Clark of Glover.

The single smallpox case in town has simmered down to only a suspicious instance. Dr. Parlin, who is treating Mr. McGoff, was satisfied that he did not have smallpox, but to make the public feel safer in the matter, he called in consultation Dr. Worthington of Sherbrooke, who has had two epidemics of small pox under his personal charge during his extensive practice, and during the South African war was the senior medical officer on the Canadian expedition. Therefore the doctor is the best of authorities, and the reporter saw this physician's signed statement that McGoff had no smallpox symptoms. However, the patient's disease may be of a contagious character and the health officer took the only safe course in quarantining Mr. McGoff and two boarders at his home who had been exposed and who were employed in the mill. Mr. McGoff says that he feels as well as he ever did and would have been about his work all the time but for the suspicions.

The Good Templars initiated four new members at their meeting Thursday evening and took in two more by card transfer from West Charleston. The following officers were elected: W. C. W. J. Joslyn; P. C. T., Myron Allen; chaplain, Mrs. Zalmon Goodnough; N. T., Mrs. Buzzo; secretary, Mrs. W. J. Joslyn; assistant secretary, Thos. Buzzo; financial secretary, Mrs. Ed. Hall; treasurer, Howard Emerson; marshal, Clayton Goodnough; guard, Carrie Badger; sentinel, Charlie Stafford; S. J. T., Carrie Badger. This was also the last meeting in the entertainment contest; and the entertainment this evening consisted of six dramas, one dialogue, recitations, and singing. The winning side, of which Miss Gertrude Lyon was captain, won by 3000 points; the captain of the other side was Miss Myrtle Hogaboom. The members of the defeated party are to give the victors a supper at the next regular meeting two weeks from that night. The new officers will be installed on that evening also.

The entertainment given by the Village Improvement Society Tuesday evening was the most popular affair that has transpired in town for many a moon, the Methodist church being filled to its capacity. The cornet band was in attendance and rendered very fine music. The pupils in Miss Douglas' department of the academy gave an Arbor day drill, consisting of dialogues, music, recitations, etc., which demonstrated hard work and careful training by Miss Douglas; this was the leading feature of the entertainment. Then followed addresses appropriate to the occasion by Revs. Lewis and Lyman and Mr. Taplin. About fifty new members were added to the society that night; this makes a membership of over one hundred. There was $85 in treasury, and the new membership fees will bring the reserve fund to considerably over $100. This society has been doing very laudable service in our village, beautifying it in many respects and making it very attractive to visitors.
